NEW YORK, October 17, 2017 – Siris Capital Group, LLC (“Siris”) today announced that investment funds affiliated with Siris have entered into a definitive agreement to acquire 100% of the common stock of Intralinks Holdings, Inc. (“Intralinks”), a global leader for secure data sharing and enterprise collaboration solutions and a wholly owned subsidiary of Synchronoss Technologies, Inc. (“Synchronoss”) (NASDAQ: SNCR), a leading provider of cloud-based, white-label software solutions for communications and media companies. Investment funds affiliated with Siris have also entered into a definitive agreement to make an investment in convertible preferred equity of Synchronoss.

Under the terms of the agreements, investment funds affiliated with Siris will acquire all of the stock of Intralinks for approximately $1 billion in consideration and Intralinks will become an independent, privately owned portfolio company of investment funds affiliated with Siris.

Under the terms of the agreements, investment funds affiliated with Siris will make an investment in convertible preferred equity of Synchronoss in an amount of $185 million. Siris’ investment would initially be convertible into approximately 19.8% of Synchronoss’s common stock and would involve certain approval and governance rights, including with respect to the composition of the board as well as certain consent rights relating to the company.

Acquisition of Intralinks

Intralinks is a leading global provider of cloud-based virtual data room and highly secure team collaboration solutions to financial institutions and enterprises. Intralinks delivers a mission-critical product offering to some of the largest financial services companies in the world and is well-positioned to meet the needs of major banks and other corporations in highly regulated industries seeking to automate document-centric, collaborative workflows. Following consummation of the acquisition, Intralinks will be an independent, privately owned portfolio company of investment funds affiliated with Siris.

Leif O’Leary, the current Executive Vice President of Strategic Financials for Synchronoss, is expected to assume the role of Chief Executive Officer of Intralinks following the consummation of the Intralinks acquisition. Mr. O’Leary joined Intralinks in 2013 and, prior to Synchronoss’s acquisition of the company in January 2017, served as Executive Vice President of Worldwide Sales and Services at Intralinks. Mr. O’Leary brings to the CEO position deep operating experience at Intralinks and nearly 25 years of relevant B2B industry experience.

Al Zollar, executive partner at Siris, commented on the acquisition of Intralinks and the pending CEO appointment of Mr. O’Leary: “Intralinks has been a leader, innovator, and trusted partner in secure enterprise collaboration for over 20 years, with the product capabilities, scale, and expertise to serve the demanding and evolving needs of large financial services and enterprise customers worldwide. Looking to the future, Siris sees great talent and potential within the organization, and is excited to partner with Intralinks to support and accelerate the company’s mission to solve its customers’ data sharing and collaboration needs. I have utmost confidence in Leif’s ability to lead Intralinks through this next chapter of focused growth and innovation.”

Mr. O’Leary commented: “I am honored to have the opportunity to lead a refocused and reenergized Intralinks as we start this new and exciting chapter of our evolution. By reemerging as a standalone company, we will enhance and accelerate our growth and deliver more value to our customers, partners, and employees. Siris is the ideal partner for a number of reasons: it has deep domain expertise in enterprise communications and collaboration, a strong deal-making pedigree and first-hand financial services experience, a strong operational focus, and a shared commitment to customer enablement and success. All these qualities make Siris a natural strategic and financial partner for Intralinks.”

The Intralinks transaction is subject to specified closing conditions, including the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act and other foreign antitrust regulatory approvals. Upon completion of the acquisition of Intralinks, which is expected to be consummated in mid-November 2017, Intralinks will become wholly owned by investment funds affiliated with Siris.

Kai Oistamo, executive partner at Siris, stated: “Siris’ investment in Synchronoss is consistent with the firm’s strategy of investing in companies that deliver mission-critical solutions and maintain deeply embedded and trusted customer relationships. It is a strong validation of Synchronoss’s solid business and market fundamentals, and will support a refocused strategy dedicated exclusively to communications and media companies following the divestiture of Intralinks. Siris’ investment in Synchronoss, combined with the acquisition of Intralinks, will allow each company to focus on its respective products, customers, operations, and the promising market opportunities that lie ahead.”

The investment in Synchronoss is subject to specified closing conditions, including the closing of the sale of Intralinks, the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act and other foreign antitrust regulatory approvals, as well as certain other regulatory conditions.
